1. Get your seeds early. Cathy T has seeds for warm season vegetables (tomatoes, cherry tomatoes, hot peppers) available now along with herbs such as basil, parsley, and chives.
2. Get your trays ready. Trays with drainage, humidity covers, and sized for easy handling are available now. Plastic trays are pathogen free and easily cleaned after use. Cathy T's seed starting kits are available now!
3. Use a professional mix. Mixes that are sterile, light weight, and clean without pathogens or insect issues are best. Fresh mix is important as well. Each of Cathy T's kits come with enough mix for the 12-cell seed tray. Perfect tray size for beginners or kids.
4. Seed packets filled with info and then some. One of the biggest learning curves is learning about timing and when to sow your seeds. The seed packets give a lot of information, but Cathy T provides more information by giving you "when to sow charts" and planting instructions along with instructional videos on Facebook to all purchasers of her seed packets and/or seed starting kits.
